

Wagner

I am currently an Associate Professor in the Department of Biostatistics and Informatics, Colorado School of Public Health at the University of Colorado. I believe involvement in service activities demonstrates commitment to one's department, school, university, and my academic discipline in general. I have been active in service activities at each of these levels throughout my academic career. I view these activities as opportunities for me to develop a greater understanding of my discipline and to further contribute to the advancement of my field.

I have previously served as chair of the 2012 student paper competition for the Western North American Region of the International Biometric Society (WNAR IBS). More recently, I have served as an elected representative on the WNAR regional committee (2014-2016) and as treasurer (2019-). I very much enjoyed my past involvement with WNAR and would like to continue to contribute to this important organization.
